International EQAR-BRV-Congress "Building Material Recycling"

The largest European building material recycling congress took place on March 22, 2018 in Vienna / Austria.

Organizers were the European Quality Association for Recycling (EQAR) and the Building Materials Recycling Association of Austria (BRV). 180 participants from 12 European countries accompanied the event.

Recycled building materials are high quality building materials and can be reused in an environmentally friendly way (saving on raw materials but also on landfill volumes). European representatives in Vienna presented high standards for optimal recycling in the EQAR-BRV congress "Building Material Recycling".

High ranking ministerial representatives (Dr. E. Wolfslehner / BMNT, Dr. Ch. Hochholdinger / BMNT, Mr. G. Marosi / BMF) moderated the conference. DI Mag. Thomas Kasper, as President of the BRV on the Austrian way, which allows it in coordination between BRV and BMNT, in the meantime with a recycling rate of over 80% - and so much more than European demanded - already today cost-effective construction industry recycled building materials in high quality to provide.

Representing the quality-conscious European recycling industry, the European Quality Association for Recycling (EQAR) promotes quality-conscious recycling in the construction sector. "
